The Pen d'Oreille Route.

[From the Helena Herald.]

Ever since the first settlement of Montana there has been a great desire evinced by both our people and the dwellers on the Pacific coast, to increase our facilities for communication with the West. It was known that anything that could be done with this end in view would be mutually beneficial. Hence we have had numerous attempts to open the Mullan Road so as to make it passable for wagons—attempts which, despite many announcements of complete success, have really met with poor reward. In order to bring us nearer to them, the citizens of Portland, even two years since, contributed twelve thousand dollars for the improvement of one spot alone upon the road between themselves and Montana—that spot being too well known to packers as "Red Rock Point." Last year, by the placing of a steamer upon Pen d'Oreille Lake, two days of tedious land travel through a marshy country was substituted by a half day's pleasant sail upon one of the most beautiful sheets of water in America; and during the past summer the pack animal has given way to steam, and navigation has been open from Thompson's Falls on Clark's Fork to Pen d'Oreille City at the southern point of Pen d'Oreille Lake, thus saving at least five days of travel upon the worst road between Montana and our friends upon the other side. Each step which has been taken towards the improvement of the Pen d'Oreille route has been an advance toward the conclusion, now very generally adopted, that the "longest way around is the shortest way home," and that the road by Pen d'Oreille Lake is destined to be the road which shall bring to us our supplies from the Pacific. We are now glad to announce to our readers that further steps for the improvement of this route are being taken. Well knowing the strong desire which the people of his State have for a good road to Montana, Senator George H. Williams, of Oregon, has conceived the idea of applying to Congress, during its present session, for such an appropriation as shall cause to be effected the desired result. With this end in view, he has addressed General Meredith, our worthy mountain representative of the Land Office Department, for the purpose of ascertaining all the particulars with regard to the road between Horse Prairie and Cabinet Landing, and as to what amount of money would be necessary in order to make that road a good one. By the aid of Capt. W. W. DeLacy, the necessary information is now being prepared, and will be forwarded to Senator Williams as soon as practicable. The country over which it is proposed to improve the road is the only portion which is more difficult of travel than our main thoroughfares between here and Salt Lake and the States.

From here to Missoula stages have already been running for many months at a time. From Missoula to Horse Prairie, a distance of fifty-seven miles, is not surpassed for excellence by that of any country, except for a very short distance, where a little dragging away of loose rock might be necessary. Between Horse Prairie and Cabinet Landing the roads are bad. The trails are cut up into a succession of deep mud-holes made by the even tread of the pack animals, and into which they plunge almost knee deep at every step. And we still have Bad Rock Point—not as bad as it was formerly, to be sure, but with a trail over it still bearing too close a resemblance to a rough and irregular stairway of rolling rock, and reminding a rider over it too forcibly of the striking similarity of his situation and that of "Old Put," when he made his celebrated escape at Horseneck.

At the westerly end of the section of road to which we are referring, is another difficult piece of road, at what is called Cabinet Mountain. Here the trail, which has been following the general course of Clark's Fork, but which has kept hundreds of feet above it upon the table land, descends a very abrupt, and, in wet weather, a very slippery and dangerous steep to the banks of the river. On the westerly portion of the road there is also much trouble from the numerous sloughs and streams which the road is forced to cross, and which in the early spring, is almost impassable lakes and torrents.

Now, the work to be done is to make a rearrangement at Bad Rock Point; construct at Cabinet Mountains, and one or two other points, a more gentle grade; and, at all streams that are unfordable in the spring, to construct substantial bridges, either of stone, each consisting of a heavy arch, which shall span the entire stream, or else consisting, as would probably be best, of wooden bridges, so constructed that it shall be impossible for the water to ever touch any portion of them. The whole length of road over which these improvements will have to be made does not exceed ninety miles. At the end of that distance one would find a steamboat to take him at any season of the year across a never-freezing lake a distance of fifty miles, to the eastern end of the most beautiful road in the country—the road to Walla Walla. Even at a distance of twenty-six miles from Horse Prairie, at Thompson's Falls, he could take a steamer during the summer time, but, while the road is under manipulation, it may as well be placed in order for all seasons of the year as otherwise.

But what will all this cost? Not less than $50,000, and possibly more. Can we get this amount from Congress? There's the rub. We hope we can, and shall use all the influence we possess to procure it. This road once thoroughly opened so as to be traveled by stages, and a pleasant seven days' journey through some of the most magnificent scenery in America will bring us to Portland, and, what is fully as important, will serve to bring Portland to us.

Montana, with the heads of navigation of America's greatest rivers—the Missouri and the Columbia—in the heart of her Territory, and with only six hundred miles between them, is destined to become one great thoroughfare. With the road of which we have been speaking once improved, every summer will see hosts of people from the Pacific swarming across it and reaching the States, by the way of the Missouri river, and it will also see counter hosts ascending the Missouri, and, "via Montana route," seeking the golden shores. This road will in fact, be but the forerunner of the North Pacific Railroad, a road which, in the route traveled, will possess natural advantages superior to those of all competitors, and will not fail to prove itself, what it will also help to make Montana, a magnificent success.

Let us, then, have the appropriation—the sooner and the larger, the better both for ourselves and the Pacific coast, who might then justly expect even a much larger quantity of clean Montana gold in exchange for their goods than they now receive.

The London Engineer says: To such wonderful perfection has the process of manufacturing test objects for microscopes been carried, that M. Nobert, of Griefswald, in Prussia, has engraved lines upon glass so close together that upward of eighty thousand would go in the space of an English inch. Several series of these lines were engraved upon one slip of glass. By these the defining power of any object glass could be ascertained. As test objects they are equal to, and even rival, many natural objects which have hitherto been employed for this purpose. The delicate lines on some of the diatomaceae are separated from each other by the fifty-thousandth part of an inch, while the finest line engraved by M. Nobert are not more than the one hundred-thousandth part of an inch apart.

THE REMOVAL OF MR. MOTLEY.—The Washington Chronicle says there is good reason for believing that J. Lothrop Motley was removed from the Austrian Mission, not by Mr. Seward, but by Mr. Johnson; that Mr. S. signed the recall without reading it, when he was overwhelmed with grief over the death of his daughter. That paper says: "There is certainly some foundation for the story, inasmuch as Mr. Motley's letter, condoling with the Secretary on the death of his daughter, was cordially answered by Mr. Seward even while Mr. Motley was wondering why he was removed from his post. Of course this inside view of the matter will hardly appear in the reply to Mr. Sumner's resolution asking for the correspondence between the Secretary of State and the illustrious historian."

Sergeant Morrison, who has charge of the Government property on Goat Island, at Newport, R. I., is 53 years old, and the senior officer of the army on the active list. He is a native of Scotland, and entered the British army at [illegible], and after 17 years of service enlisted in the American army, and has been a soldier ever since. Goat Island has been under his command for 14 years, and for 18 years previously he had charge of all the fortifications in New York harbor.

The Amoor and the Siberia Gold Mines.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, who has lately returned from a journey to Northern Asia and around the world, says:

I found the Amoor a beautiful river. It had the width of the Mississippi, with the picturesque banks of the Hudson and St. Lawrence. In some places there were low shores, like those between Memphis and Vicksburg, the river spreading through a broad valley studded with numerous islands. There is one channel ninety-five miles in length, reminding an American of the Gates of the Rocky Mountains. The Amoor at this point has worn a sinuous passage through a mountain chain that crosses its valley at an oblique angle. Luxuriant forests line the shores, and at the southern bend of the river the tropical and polar regions are both represented. The cork tree and the spruce grow side by side, and the tiger and reindeer wander through the same groves. A scientific explorer of the Amoor valley told me that similar natural associations could be found nowhere else in the world. The agricultural possibilities of the country are promising, and the results thus far satisfy the colonist.

The country around the head of the Amoor is rich in mineral wealth, and a great deal of gold and silver has been taken out. I saw some fine specimens of coarse gold from a recently discovered placer on a tributary of the Amoor. The officer who found it was on his way to St. Petersburg, to arrange for developing the mine. Formerly all mines, of whatever character, belonged to the Government, and were managed on Imperial account. Recently the Emperor has adopted a new policy, which promises well for the interests of the country. The reserved districts are being relinquished to companies and individuals, who operate on their own account and pay a tax to the Government. The whole of the Amoor Valley east of the one hundred and fortieth meridian was thrown open two years ago to private enterprise. Many Government establishments have been sold or given away, and others will soon pass from Imperial to personal control. During my stay at Irkutsk an iron foundry, a few hundred miles away, was changed into civilian hands, and another was under negotiation. The famous lapidary established at Ekaterinburg is to be closed at the end of the present year and sold to the highest bidder. It appears to be the Emperor's policy to reduce the employments of the Government and increase those of the citizen. I asked an official the reason of this new movement. 'Oh,' said he, 'we have watched the progress of England and America and think we should profit by the example.'

Some of the gold mines in Siberia have developed a richness equalling that of California in its best days. Enormous fortunes have been made in a few years by individual miners, and some of these fortunes have been swept away by subsequent seasons of ill-luck. I met one man who had accumulated 17,000,000 of roubles, (about $14,000,000) and another enjoying a clear possession of $13,000,000. A young lady of Irkutsk had a net income last year of more than half a million, and hoped to increase it in 1868. Those who are fortunate in gold mining build magnificent houses in the middle of Siberia, and adorn them with every desired and procurable luxury. They endow churches and schools, educate their children with great care, and are generally anxious for the social and moral progress of their country. Of course, there are exceptions to the general rule, some of the miners indulging in the most foolish prodigality. A gentleman told me that a few years ago when a prominent official visited the house of a successful miner, the day was dusty and the latter individual [illegible] to sprinkle his garden paths with champagne. He was greatly chagrined on being sharply rebuked for such extravagance.

A California Steam Plow.

A steam plow, got up on new principles, is now in operation in California. The work is accomplished by revolving cutters connected with the motive power. The machine is expected to plow, or dig up, 36 to 40 acres per day. To afford an idea of how the work is done, we [illegible] the following description of the invention from a California paper:

The machine consists of a massive frame of six by twelve-inch timber, 24 feet long by 12 feet wide, mounted upon two carrying wheels 8 feet in diameter and 34-inch face, with two steering wheels, forward, 4 feet in diameter and 15-inch face. The carrying wheels are geared to a pulley shaft which is belted to the engine driving pulley, and one or both wheels may be thrown in or out of gear at pleasure of the operator, and the machine turned in its own length; and the locomotive movement may be perfectly graduated to the speed of the cutters and character of the ground. The cutting apparatus consists of four shafts set in a verticle frame attached at the rear of the machine; these shafts are connected by crown gearing to a horizontal pulley shaft on the upper part of the vertical frame, and the pulley belted to the engine driving pulley.

The foot of each of the four vertical shafts is furnished with four stout radiating arms of three feet sweep, in the ends of which arms the cutting arms are vertically set. The shafts are geared to revolve in opposite directions so as to divide the side strain of the cutting force; and the periphery of each set of arms strikes just within that of the other, so as to leave no ridges upon the ground after the cutters. The adjustment of the machine for ordinary ground will give the cutters one hundred and fifty revolutions a minute, each knife cutting an inch slice every revolution; and as the earth, after being cut, is subjected to trituration by the rotary and forward movement of the knives, it must be well pulverized and prepared for seed, while the locomotive power required for the machine will be but little more than that necessary to overcome the inertia of its weight, as the traction draft of the cutters will be very light.

The bug-bear of negro rule at the South is thus discussed by the Atlanta (Ga.) New Era:

If this Government—United States or State—ever becomes any other than a white man's government, the blame will rest on none other than the white race. It can rest nowhere else, and the white people of the country, and they alone will be responsible for it. Reconstruction is progressing—all have an opportunity of participating in the work—if any decline, no matter from what causes, it is their own fault; and if the whites, competent to do so, refuse to vote, and thereby lose control of the government, they must take the consequences. With all the advantages that the whites have in respect to numbers, intelligence, wealth, position and influence, it would seem they deserve "negro rule" if they cannot or will not cope with their late slaves in the political arena. If the South had taken or even now will take hold of the reconstruction plan and co-operate with Congress in restoring the now excluded States to the Union, they will be readmitted in time to take an active part in the next Presidential election, and we doubt not the disabilities now imposed on a large number of her citizens would soon be removed from most of them, and ultimately from all.

RECONSTRUCTION IN GEORGIA—THE OFFICIAL VOTE.—The official vote of the State, at the late election was declared last evening. The result corresponded with what we have heretofore announced—a complete triumph of the friends of reconstruction.

The political character of the Convention elect, has not been questioned. But some of the disunionists have questioned the vote. Let this be analyzed by the grumblers:

The registered list numbered 188,647; the vote cast 106,410; majority of registered voters that voted, 12,086. For a Convention, 102,283. Against a Convention, 4,127; majority for Convention, 98,156. Vote for Convention, 102,283; majority of vote for a Convention over half the registered vote, 12,987.

The registration lists gave about 10,000 majority white voters. About 36,000 of these voted for Convention, and in favor of reconstruction. Thus the people of Georgia have recorded their verdict. As to their future decision there can be no doubt. They will return to the Union.

DISTILLERIES IN GREAT BRITAIN.—William Prescott Smith, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third District of Maryland, visited Europe last summer, and while there, ascertained that there are only seven distilleries in England, but three hundred in Scotland and Ireland together. The government tax levied there on spirits is equal to $2.80 per wine gallon.

Party Drill.

The following is an extract from an article published in the San Francisco Examiner, the principal Dem[illegible] paper in California:

It is a striking and beautiful feature in the great Democratic organization that no matter how much its members may differ in regard to men—no matter how zealously and warmly they may enter into a fight against individuals—no matter how freely and pointedly they may criticise the claims of various candidates presented for favor, when a decision is arrived at—a decision rendered in accordance to the usages of party—all feeling and opposition [illegible] with its rendition. This is the grand secret of the success of the party.

Thorough discipline, that is to say, the discipline which insures to every candidate who may be nominated by the Democratic party the entire vote of that organization, whatever his character or qualifications, is undoubtedly a prominent feature of that party; whether it is a beautiful feature is quite another question. The fact that such [illegible] will be borne by so large a number of men, speaks very unfavorably for the intelligence and independence of those who make it their boast that they have "always been Democrats and [illegible] scratched a ticket." Such a fact shows that there is little independent thinking in the party; that the masses are led wholly at the direction of leaders, who for the sake of wielding this [illegible] power and through fear of dividing it and thus depriving [illegible] ambition of the [illegible] of [illegible]ing its [illegible] by each other on all occasions. [illegible] is a bond among the leaders which is as strong as a league [illegible] filibusters. Their unity is not produced by disinterestedness, but by the most selfish motives which can prompt men to action. They remain united that their followers may be united; they put down division among themselves to prevent division among the [illegible] of their party over whom they have so [illegible] an ascendency. This is the secret of Democratic [illegible] that party is [illegible] ambition unites the leaders; [illegible] prejudice and the name of party cause the [illegible] to follow. The [illegible] is not new. It has [illegible] everywhere. Demagogues knew the [illegible] long ago, and have never hesitated to use it for their advantage. The only [illegible] against such a system is in the growth of a spirit of individual [illegible], which is produced by the spread of intelligence and the diffusion of knowledge among the people. Republicans differ as to measures [illegible] they think for themselves, [illegible] is sure to lead to differences of [illegible]. They [illegible] differ as to men, because the [illegible] who hold themselves strictly bound to vote for candidates who are [illegible] who have obtained nominations by fraud, simply because they are the "regular nominees." The late election in California [illegible] proof of the [illegible] of this [illegible] party has not a large [illegible] auxiliaries, disciplined to vote [illegible] and therefore their organ [illegible] praises that "beautiful feature" to which the California paper ascribes all the victories which its party achieves.

[illegible] of [illegible]ity.

[illegible] mines cannot make a [illegible] prosperous. All the gold which California has produced has done less for the [illegible] prosperity of that State, than her crystals of [illegible] since the foreign [illegible] gold and silver [illegible] have been dug out by miners in Oregon [illegible] not been worth as much to this part of the country as an equal [illegible] of thousands earned by farmers and [illegible] permanent [illegible]tions. The [illegible]; precious metals have [illegible] abroad [illegible] while the money [illegible] in the [illegible] of industry has generally been expended in improvements here. Hence the Pacific States with all their treasures of gold and silver, must depend for their real growth on the [illegible] of common industry, each of which will contribute to build up the solid structure of internal prosperity. Little reliance can be [illegible] which does not make itself felt in the actual development of [illegible] and activities [illegible] exclusively to the State; therefore the people of the Pacific coast have derived little real advantage from the digging of gold which has either been wasted at home or gone to improve other parts of the country. It is [illegible] very evident by the experience of the last two years that there is not the smallest danger of producing in the Pacific States an amount of wheat sufficient to depreciate the price when there is any demand for export. The price here cannot be sensibly diminished by all that can be produced on the Pacific coast. Of [illegible] it is impossible to tell what the foreign market will be in future; but at present there exists no reason for believing that the demand in Europe, beyond the Pacific, and in the great [illegible] of the Atlantic cities will, for a long time to [illegible], fall to such an extent as to send wheat much below one dollar per bushel in this market. We need to keep up all our home industries and establish more. Steady gains, however small, and their continual investment, is the [illegible] to build up both private and public prosperity.

Large majorities, long continued, breed in themselves the elements of dissolution. A condition in which a nomination is equal to an election, no matter who the nominee, is a corrupting one. In time [illegible] inside the party more fierce than that with the [illegible]. It makes personal ambitions more prominent. It magnifies minor issues. It is continually adding to a sore-head class, whose desire for place has not been gratified, or who are jealous of the prominent influence of others. Indeed, all the [illegible] which make two political parties are continually at work, reducing the strength of a very great party and bringing it down to a condition of equality with the party that opposes it.

In the vote on the resolution reported in the House on the 30th November, instructing the Committee on Banks and Banking to report a bill providing for withdrawing from circulation the National Bank currency and supply the same with greenbacks, nearly all the Democratic members voted in the negative. The resolution was lost. The Democratic press has been urging the measure, but their Congressmen did not vote for it.

STATE ITEMS.

The snow at Albany some days ago was six inches in depth.

The Record learns that Capt. McManus, Postmaster at St. Louis, died suddenly on Christmas day.

Agent Simpson, who returned to Salem two or three days ago from Siletz, reports that the Indians are all quiet; the white settlers of Yaquina are mostly hived up for winter; the roads and bridges are so damaged by the freshets that there is little prospect of anything being done until spring.

At a meeting last Thursday, of the stockholders of the Linn County Agricultural Society, the following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year: Dr. E. H. Griffin, M. Looper, Jesse Parish, A. Hackleman, D. Froman, S. Montgomery and Allen Parker. A resolution was passed instructing the Board of Directors to prevent Sunday desecration on the Fair Grounds.

The following from the Santiam quartz district is published in a Salem paper: Mr. Stroud reports that a man who lately came from Quartzville, having been at work for Salmon & Co., reports that they had struck "a chimney," and were doing very well. We hope so, for independently of a desire to have Santiam mining interests prove of value, we think this company, who are brave enough to work and winter there, deserve success.

The Record remarks: Our old friend Daniel Waldo says there is complaint made by the colored people that at their celebration the other day they were annoyed by the presence of "poor white trash," such as they used to see in North Carolina. A Democratic editor was present who endeavored to draw one of the Albany colored ladies into conversation, without success. He gave them some very valuable lessons illustrative of the temperance question, but we did not realize how he was received until we heard uncle Dan's statement.

Mr. Thatcher, Agent of the Oregon and California Stage Company, informs the Record that he is doing all that is possible to do, and more than is required, towards supplying mails upon the route of the contract in this State. Men are sent out on the road to cut ice at the half frozen creeks and streams, so that the stages can cross them. The difficulties of staging can be imagined at this very inclement season, and every allowance should be made for the delay of mails, instead of complaint being made, as we hear of in certain quarters.

The Eugene Journal says: O. O. Applegate, who is connected with the Indian Department, called at our office this week. He is returning south from an expedition with Superintendent Huntington, from Klamath Lake Reservation to Dalles by way of Williamson's and Des Chutes rivers on the east side of the Cascade mountains. This expedition took a large train of Government wagons over this road and opened a new and excellent wagon road from the Klamath Lake to Crooked river, a distance of about one hundred and fifty miles. From all we can learn the situation of Indian affairs in the eastern and southeastern portion of the State are more favorable to peace than has been the case for many years.

OLYMPIA CORRESPONDENCE.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 31st, 1867.

Eighteen hundred and sixty-seven is going out in Washington Territory very much as it is in other parts of the world. Yet everywhere it goes amid regrets and blessings. Regrets for time lost, abilities wasted, strength dissipated, hopes disappointed; and rejoicing for plans fulfilled, purposes accomplished, victories gained. It has had its bridal altars and funeral pyres, its rose wreaths and its myrtles. He is thoughtless who does not pause a moment as the speedy rush of the last hours of the year is hurrying by to commune with the past and prepare for the future. He is not a dreamer who draws the girdle of reflection tight around his loins as he passes each successive stage in the journey of life, and thus girds himself for a better pilgrimage in the future, but he who does not is worse than a dreamer. To-day, I write 1867. To-morrow I shall write 1868. May 1868 "deal kindly and truly" with you Mr. Editor and with the sheet over which you preside. May it be gentle to our "dear native land," and may it[illegible] see the principles of true fraternity, the [illegible] of freedom and human rights by the voluntary voice and vote of the American people throned in the high places of power.

In my last I spoke of the adjournment of the Honorable Legislature on the holidays, so, of so [illegible], I have no news from that august body. The pending election to fill the vacant seat in the Council from Thurston and Lewis counties, absorbs the greater part of public interest. The fight, so far as the papers are concerned, is a triangular one, with McLane on two corners of the triangle and Longmire on the other.

SHIPWRECK.

The ship Julia Foster, of Callao, in ballast, bound for Utsalada for lumber, went on the rocks at Neah Bay, near the entrance of the Straits of Fuca, on the 22d December and was totally broken up. She was a large ship—a thousand tons burthen, and was the pioneer of a contemplated line between the Sound and the port of Callao, and hence her loss is a peculiar misfortune to the commerce of the Sound. Her captain, Plummer, an intelligent and accomplished gentleman, and no doubt an able seaman, told me he had never encountered such a gale before, except once in the China Sea. The vessel is a total loss.

Like everybody else, I have taken a little pleasuring during the recess, and have looked in on Steilacoom, Seattle, the milling ports and Port Townsend. The latter place [illegible] to be brushing up a little, looking hopefully into the future. In [illegible] business which means lumber here—is at present quite prosperous on these waters.

CHIEL.

The funding of the national debt, and the extension of the time for its general liquidation, is now being thoroughly discussed in financial circles. It is proposed to consolidate the debt, bring it all under a uniform rate of interest, and then provide, by a judicious system of taxation, for its future payment. Any measure to secure this result will of course be popular with the people. The idea of immediate liquidation was never feasible. The present generation made the sacrifice of limb and life to secure the Union and Government, so that it is as little as future generations can do to pay the debts incurred to save the nation.

The New York Times is of opinion that the proper measure of taxation is at present the current expenditure of the Government plus the interest on the debt. All taxation imposed for purposes other than these, being unnecessary, should be abolished. And as it is estimated that the excess of revenue collected under existing laws, above the sum needed for these purposes, is not less than $150,000,000, it follows that Congress, without inconvenience to the Government or damage to the public credit, may reduce the annual aggregate of taxes to this extent.

It is said that the changes in the Government of Japan which have been brought about by the revolution there, will operate very disadvantageously upon the trade which other nations had hoped to enjoy with the Japanese. The new Emperor is opposed to foreign commerce, and his presence on the throne will undoubtedly retard commercial enterprises. The former represented what might be called the "Liberal Party" of Japan, and favored unlimited commercial intercourse with all nations.

A Grant Club was organized at Chicago a short time ago, of which John Q. Dore was elected President, with thirty Vice Presidents, among whom are Hon. Lyman Trumbull, Hon. N. B. Judd, Hon. John Wentworth, Hon. Isaac N. Arnold, Mayor Rice, and Gen. Osborne. Auxiliary clubs have been formed in every ward in Chicago and in all the towns of Cook county.

ARMY EXPENSES.—The order recently issued by General Grant for a reduction of the army, has made necessary a revision of the estimates of the War Department for the ensuing year. This reduction will save in the aggregate fifteen millions eight hundred and forty-two thousand dollars to the Government.

Coal is obtained at Olympia from Seattle for $11 per ton, and is used as a substitute for firewood. Those who use it say it makes a cheaper and better fire than wood.

BRONCHITIS.—FROM MR. C. H. GARDNER, Principal of the Rutgers' Female Institute, N. Y., May 14th, 1858: "I have been afflicted with Bronchitis during the past winter, and found no relief until I found your Troches." "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, give prompt relief in Coughs, Colds, and Throat Diseases, and are for sale throughout the United States and most foreign countries.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital $100,000. B. M. DuRell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places of Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

SKATES ARE VERY MUCH IN DEMAND, and from appearances at the "Lake" yesterday there must have been a great many skates sold. Whilst every person is going skating they should not neglect to take care of their person, which they can easily do by calling at KOHN & FISHEL'S and get a good Overcoat or Beaver Suit, Cloth Gloves, and everything to keep a man or woman comfortable.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched) in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

JOSH BILLINGS ON ICE.—This is the way Josh puts up his fust experience at a skating "Rink:"

Having heard so much sed about skating parks and the grate [illegible] of health and muscle they was imparting to the [illegible] of generation at a slight advance from fust cost, I bot a ticket and went within the lines I f und the ice in a slippery condishun, covering 5 akers of artifishal water which was owned by a stock company, froze to order Upon one side the pond was erected a little grocery bilding, where the women sot on benches while the fellers (kivered with blushes) hitched the magic iron to their feet. It was a most exciting scene I wanted to holler "bully," or lay down and roll over But I kept fit, and [illegible] with glory Helth was pictured on menny a knoble brow As the female angells [illegible] on the pond side by side with the male angells, it was the most powerful scene I ever stood behind The long red tape from their necks [illegible] in the breeze, and the feathers in the jockeys fluttered in the breeze and other things (tew much to men[illegible]) fluttered in the breeze I don t think I was more crazy before in my life—on ice For 2 long hours I stood and gazed with dum excitement I felt like a kaball horse turned suddenly out to graze As one of the angells, more and less than awl the rest, cum flieing down the rink's length, the sheed of her mail angell all eyes were gorging with her heavenly bust or speed; she seemed to have let loose from earth, and was bound for the cape of Good Hope, when awl tew once with a [illegible] swoop terrific down crumbling into a limpid heap she went with squeal terrific a flying [illegible] of disastrous skirt and tapering ankle Awl [illegible] around the bursted angell; but lo in a [illegible] her wings agin wuz plumed and every father [illegible] its lawful plase, and on she flew laffin like wise thru its buteous blushes I hadn't [illegible]—more happiness than belongs tew me and as I slowly wended back tew my [illegible] at the tavern I felt good

[illegible]—By the mail of Tuesday evening we received several dates of the Victoria Colonist, in one of which we find the following bit of information concerning the Columbia river: "Columbia river is rapidly shoaling and steamships experience increased difficulty each year in [illegible] Portland It is feared that soon the stopping place for sea going vessels will be at Astoria " This will [illegible], indeed and sad news to the people of Oregon The noble old Columbia is about to kerflumux it[illegible] and but for the watchful kindness of our Victoria neighbor, the Or go ians might never have known it. The local papers wouldn t have said a word about it on account of business interest and rivalries, don t you see? This is the way the matter will stand the Columbia ceasing to be a harbor on account of filling up the Straits of Fuca would be the only harbor on the North Pacific coast, and Victoria the only [illegible] commercial importance The editor of the [illegible] is a great and [illegible] He has evidently [illegible] of commercial growth [illegible] with great care He [illegible] Portland But really we are astonished at the rapidity with which the editor has already carried on the "shoaling" process as indicated by the following paragraph in an issue two or three days only subsequent to the one already quoted from:

Read this and weep ye dwellers on the banks of the Columbia and Willamette The mail steamers bound for Portland Oregon now land their passengers and freight at Astoria Columbia River is shoaling rapidly Thus with two short paragraphs is Portland snuffed out Oh alas

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BURNING TO DEATH.—Tuesday afternoon a little girl of eight or nine years of age, daughter of Mrs O'Hara, who lived on Main street had a very narrow escape from being fatally burned The child was sitting on the floor when a spark from the fire flew out and caught in her dress, setting it in flames As the little girl present immediately ran out and gave the alarm attracting the attention of a woman in a neighboring house, who instantly hurried to the rescue Meantime the child had run screaming out of the door to the sidewalk where the fresh wind fanned the flames into a fiercer rage Fortunately the woman as she ran had presence of mind enough to pick up a gunny sack which lay on the sidewalk Reaching the child, she threw the gunny sack around it and extinguished the flames The little girls clothes were entirely burned off, and her hair and eyebrows were nearly all consumed but singularly enough the child escaped with only a serious burn on one of its legs, the body and face being but little injured

DISCOVERY OF PETROLEUM.—We learn that news has been received in this city of the discovery of Petroleum in Washington Territory between Shoalwater and Baker's bays Indications had been found nearly or quite a year ago floating on the surface of a small stream; but the precise locality whence the oil oozed from the ground, is only of recent discovery The land on which the prospective oil well is located is owned by a resident of this city

SKATING.—"During the last few days," says the Victoria Colonist, "the lovers of skating have taken advantage of the frost. The palm of glory lies between Messrs. Roscoe and Tye whose performances on Skinner's and Harris Bottoms were greatly admired " The skaters here do it differently—they go it on the principle that every tub must stand (or—sit) on its own bottom

THAT SHIPMENT OF PAINT.—We find that the gentleman who gave us the information about the paint shipped by the brig Brewster, and about which we had an item yesterday, was mistaken or that he purposely misinformed us The paint was a lot sent out here some months ago from Pennsylvania and remaining unsold, was ordered shipped to San Francisco We are sorry for Kelly

DR. O. W. COOL,

DENTIST.

THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold It makes the plate twice as strong and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence One half of the common vulcanite plates turn [illegible] after being in use a short time particularly when tobacco is used for smoking His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface His office is the only place where such work can be had The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received, December 3d 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his office This work has given satisfaction in every case.

Ruinous System of Wheat Culture.

The following from the report of the Department of Agriculture for October, contains some suggestions applicable to the system of wheat culture pursued in this State:

In a tour to the northwest, taken for the purpose of increasing facilities for the collection of agricultural statistics, and for conference with professional or other intelligent agriculturists, relative to department co-operation in aid of the interests and supply of the wants of that great section, the editor of this report was struck particularly with the ruinous tendency of the current system (or want of system) of wheat culture. A few suggestions on this point will be hazarded.

In what respect ruinous? In impoverishment of the soil, in deterioration of the seed, in overrunning the country with weeds, in promoting a false and wasting system of political economy. These are [illegible] charges, but they are made in good faith, can be easily substantiated, and will be acknowledged just by thousands of western wheat growers.

The prevalent mode of operating involves first a partial breaking of the soil, rendering sowing irregular in position and depth, and drilling difficult and imperfect, giving weeds quite as good a chance as the wheat. The next year a superficial, hasty plowing partially covers the stubble, and very slightly the tangle of weeds, and wheat is again put in. Year after year wheat follows wheat and weeds increase, while the yield of grain diminishes, partially from loss of certain elements of the soil and partly because weeds have usurped a large area of the fields. In the meantime, as if to increase the loss from the wheat necessarily carried away, the straw by millions of tons, worth almost as much per ton for feeding as the marsh or prairie hay of the country, is burned nightly in [illegible] time till the sky is bright with a continued holocaust of greenbacks in straw—and the [illegible] for thus dissipating in thin air not only [illegible] of nutrition, but valuable elements of fertilization, is that the way may be clear for the plow to scratch over again the [illegible] soil. This picture may not be verified in every wheat field of the west, but who will deny its striking likeness in most cases?

Is [illegible] of importance [illegible] wanted? One witness only is needed—the soil itself. First, thirty bushels per acre is the boast of the farmer; then the yield drops to twenty five, to twenty, to fifteen, and finally to ten and eight. Minnesota claimed twenty-two bushels average a few years ago, (some of her enthusiastic friends made it twenty-seven), but she will scarcely average this year twelve, and will never again make twenty [illegible] sure there are [illegible]. The [illegible] do not suit as formerly, blight or rust [illegible], or the fly [illegible], but all these things are evil [illegible] of exhaustion, and prey upon the soil in proportion to its [illegible]. Yet in comparatively new soils the [illegible] by excess of weeds through [illegible] more than by actual loss of fertility.

The [illegible] that [illegible] the soil produce [illegible] in the [illegible], which perpetuates weakness and [illegible], during the yield so rapidly that new seed must be obtained at once or all profit [illegible] careful selection of seed [illegible] every year be practised [illegible] full test. [illegible] to prove seed by [illegible] care as it is to injure it [illegible] will make [illegible].

The [illegible] is stupendous, destroying [illegible] loss of millions of [illegible] of wheat. They have [illegible] foothold. The evil [illegible] can only be cured by [illegible] by the [illegible], which can never be done without a more thorough and careful system of culture. The average yield of wheat in England is [illegible] twenty eight bushels per acre, [illegible] less than [illegible]-six, unless in a year of unusually bad [illegible]. The average in this country is [illegible] [illegible] soil is [illegible] for wheat culture. It is mainly [illegible] and careful [illegible].

A fourth [illegible] A false system of political [illegible]. In the north [illegible] production [illegible]. Northwestern [illegible] they are wheat [illegible] cattle are high in price [illegible] very high [illegible] at the [illegible] and the railway [illegible] and when foreign [illegible] this country. [illegible] and wheat [illegible] and by the soil exhausted [illegible], leaving the land poor, the owner [illegible].

[illegible]

A few [illegible] of artificial [illegible] and the [illegible] in New York [illegible] may be seen at [illegible] [illegible] rival [illegible] It is [illegible] light [illegible]

[illegible] It is [illegible] nature to the [illegible]; has a dull, earthy fracture, and is [illegible] near the village of [illegible], and [illegible] where it is [illegible] in veins [illegible] feet below the [illegible] soil. When first dug up it is white and soft, but [illegible] without [illegible] in excavating hollows by a [illegible] Paris and [illegible] and also, chiefly in rough, rounded [illegible] surface. Its [illegible] is soft and smooth in [illegible] used chiefly for [illegible].

The price of the meerschaum is according to the size of the [illegible], which are [illegible] and sent from Asia Minor to Constantinople [illegible]. From the Turkish capital they are forwarded to Semlin, and thence by way of [illegible] to Vienna, which is the chief [illegible] for the article.

[illegible] the [illegible] inferior pipe bowls are [illegible] from the refuse pieces, and are [illegible] by [illegible] from the best by their [illegible] coloring when [illegible].

The [illegible] in meerschaum is very considerable, not [illegible] in the raw material, but in the manufactured article, as the value of the pipe may be [illegible] to any extent by carving. A plain bowl of superior [illegible] and beauty will sell [illegible] $10 to $20, while the sculptured [illegible] may fetch $100, without the mountings. The [illegible] imported into this country last year is [illegible] at a million of dollars, and the [illegible] pipe at as much more.

So long as the practice of smoking is indulged, as at present, the use of meerschaum and charcoal pipes may be hailed as a useful amelioration, owing to their property of absorbing the nicotine which forms the [illegible] in the [illegible].—New York Herald.

Titles to Mineral Lands.—The National Intelligencer, of a [illegible] date, has the following:

Secretary McCulloch, in his report of 1865, [illegible] that the principle of pre-emption, so long applied to the sale of agricultural lands in the West, should be extended in favor of the holders [illegible] of gold and silver mines on the public [illegible]. A bill to this effect was furnished to Senator [illegible], which, after much discussion, was entered into the act of July 26, 1866. Under the careful instructions of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, this legislation has been received with great favor on the Pacific slope. By its provisions, freedom of exploration, free occupation of Government lands for placer mining, a right to pre-empt quartz lodes previously held and improved according to local customs or codes of mining, the right of way for acqueducts and canals, not less essential to agriculture than to mining, and the extension of the homestead and other beneficent provisions of the public land system in favor of settlers upon agricultural lands in mineral districts, have been fully defined and established.

HIRAM SMITH'S
Ophthalmic Panacea!

IN BRINGING THE ABOVE NAMED NEW REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It originated in Prussia, where the science of Medicine is so thoroughly taught and practised, but owing to the poverty of its [illegible], its wonderful properties were not known beyond the limited circle of his acquaintance, to which, however, it proved itself absolutely infallible in eradicating disease from the eyes.

He immigrated to this country, bringing his discovery with him, but seems to have been indifferent to the propriety of giving it general and wide-spread circulation, and, as previously in his native country, seemed only desirous of using it among his friends and neighbors.

The present proprietor was one of those neighbors, and for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and, after ineffectual efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally became himself the possessor of the secret of its preparation.

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale, he must yet lay claim to a desire to benefit his fellows by presenting to them a remedy which does and will cure where medical science and all experience have failed.

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing; but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other attempt to cure them, and which have been given up as [illegible] and past being cured or relieved.

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial, and so confident is he of its success that he instructs all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IF IT FAILS TO CURE.

It has, within the past year, cured cases of GRANULATED LIDS, INFLAMMATION, &c., of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN and SEVENTEEN YEARS STANDING, [illegible] which fact is [illegible] in the [illegible] of the following persons, living at and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county:

ALEXANDER L. WALKER was cured of inflamed eyes of nine [illegible]. Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for over two years. For one year they were so bad that she could not work. Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

E. B. MOORE, of the firm of [illegible], Garst & Baber, of Harrisburg, had granulated lids for six years.

NATHANIEL BELL, of Clackamas [illegible], had inflamed eyes—a bad [illegible] for over fifteen years.

ROBERT KAMPEY and W. D. [illegible]TER, of Harrisburg; JOHN M. HOLLOWAY, [illegible] County; G. R. WARD, of Lane County, were all [illegible], more or less severely, with [illegible] eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

All the above named [illegible] have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg.
